EDITOR'S LETTER

In 1777, Cuba became a General Captaincy of Spain, which entitled it to have a coat of arms of its own. This coat of arms is full of symbolism in all its parts, and since we are now using it as part of our cover, we want to explain its message.

The phrygian hat that crowns the coat of arms with its silver star symbolizes the rights of men: Equality, Liberty and Fraternity. These rights were fought for by heroic men in the War of Independence.

The bundle of rods symbolizes the unity of all Cubans, base for the autonomy of the nation. It supports the coat of arms, signifying that the Republic exists by the union of its people.

The sun, setting in the western horizon of a blue sea, brings light and warmth to the island.

The key of gold indicates the geographical situation of Cuba, at the entrance of the Gulf of Mexico. The lands that are to each side of the key are Florida, of the United States, and Yucatán, of Mexico.

The three bands of deep blue and the two white bands symbolize the flag of Cuba, which in turns represents Honor, Dignity and Integrity.

The natural beauty with which the nation is blessed is represented by the scene with the palm tree, the blue sky, and the mountain.

The branches of laurel and evergreen oak that surround the coat of arms have two different meanings. The laurel symbolizes the potential of the nation; the evergreen oak symbolizes the glory and honor that the nation reserves for those who sacrificed their lives for the firm conviction that a nation is to be free.

THE FIRST CIGARETTE FACTORY IN CUBA

The Rencurrel Family in Havana

by Peter E. Carr

Although the island of Cuba has always been world famous for its cigars, not much is heard about its cigarettes.

The first cigarette factory in Cuba was started by Bernardino Rencurrel, in Havana in 1810.(1) Bernardino, sometimes known as Bernat, was born in the town of Guanabacoa, Havana Province, Cuba on the 20th of May, 1790. He was baptized as Bernardino José Dolores de la Santísima Trinidad on the 30th of May, 1790. The baptism took place at the principal parish church of Guanabacoa, named Nuestra Señora de la Asunción. His parents were Manuel Francisco Rencurrel González, a native of Guanabacoa, and Margarita Flores Quífonos, born in St. Augustine, Florida.(2)

The surname of Rencurrel in Cuba may have originated in Marseilles, France.(3) However, its spelling with a terminal double "L", Rencurrell, is indicative of its origins in the Catalonian Region of Spain. In addition, there is a town named Rencurrel in the department of Isere in France.

Although not much is presently known about the early family's economic history, it appears that the Rencurrel family was quite wealthy. This is suggested by the fact that in 1810, as a 20-year old, Bernardino was able to start his cigarette business while one of his brothers, Marcos, was studying to become a doctor.

The first location of the cigarette factory was at 10 Cuna Street, at the corner of Mercaderes Street.(4) Cuna Street was later renamed Muralla and still later Rícla. This location was probably also Bernardino's home, as in the beginning cigarette making was carried out in the home. This location was also strategically placed across a marketplace known as "Plaza Vieja" and later, until its demolition, "Plaza de Cristina."

The factory was by no means a modern-day type factory. It was a primitive operation where the cigarette making was done at a leisurely pace. Early Cuban cigarette manufacturing was completely done by hand. After "rolling" or "wrapping" the paper around the tobacco filler, the ends were crimped shut to prevent the spillage of the tobacco. This crimping was necessary since the wrapper did not have glue to seal it into shape.(5)

Two types of cigarettes were manufactured, one was thin and the other thick and they were sold loose or in bundles. The bundles were sold for five cents each or three bundles for twelve and a half cents. Each bundle contained 32 thin or 20 thick cigarettes. Either kind was much larger than those made today.(6)

It is evident that Bernardino's business was not limited to cigarettes since the Havana city directory of 1841 shows him as owner of the factory as well as tobacco and cigar warehouses. These were located at 15 and 16 Merced Street while his home was at 52 Damas Street. This latter street crossed Merced Street at the corner on which the factory and warehouse were located. Meantime, Bernardino's only son by his wife, María Rita Valdés, named José Hermenegildo, was the owner of a tobacco warehouse at 33 Muralla Street. This coincides with the location of the early factory at 10 Cuna Street.

Bernardino's cigarettes were exported worldwide as shown by an advertisement placed by Macondray & Co., commission merchants of San Francisco, in the newspaper Alta California, on the 4th of February 1852. Among other items, the advertisement stated that 20,000 cigars had been received from Rencurrell (misspelled Rancurel).

By 1859 the two main brands of cigarettes being produced were "Rencurrell" and "Astrea" of which a photocopy of an original wrapper is shown at the end of this article.(7)

The 1866 Almanaque Mercantil (Mercantile Almanac) shows Bernardino as being the owner of the first-class cigarette factory at 39 Merced Street. At the time, there were four other first-class cigarette factories and fifteen second-class ones in the city of Havana.

The tobacco leaf for the cigar and cigarette manufacturing was grown in a tobacco plantation located in the Vuelta Abajo Region of Pinar del Río Province. This region is still famous for being the best tobacco growing region in Cuba. The plantation was known as "El Hato de San Luis," and it was located immediately south of the town of San Luis.(8)

On the 23rd of January 1868, Bernardino died. His death certificate from the Espíritu Santo church, in Havana, mentions a few details of his will, dated 5 January 1855. Since his wife and daughter, Merced Anastasia, had died before him, he bequeathed all his property and belongings to his son José Hermenegildo. Bernardino's brother, Marcos, was named executor; however, it is not known who was the actual executor as Marcos had died on the 9th of November 1855.(9)

It is not presently known how long José Hermenegildo operated the business, but the Havana City Directory of 1874 shows José Manuel Rencurrel as owning a cigar and cigarette factory at 82 Aguila Street. José Manuel was José Hermenegildo's son.

José Manuel Rencurrel Valdés-Tapia was born sometime in 1837 or 1838 in Havana. In 1856, he went to study in Paris, France.(10) There he stayed and became a businessman until sometime in late 1867 or 1868, when he returned to Havana. His return may have been precipitated by his grandfather's death or political turmoil in France. His wife, Anaís-Emilie Pellard, and his first-born son, Manuel Emile Joseph Ferdinand, made the trip with him. Shortly after their arrival in Havana, this author's great-grandmother, Margarita, was born.

During the period from 1874 until the 1890's the products of the factory were exported to ports in Venezuela, Honduras, Costa Rica and other ports in Central and South America. The shipments took place in barrels.(11)

The cigarette factory remained at its Aguila Street location until at least 1918 when it was closed due to José Manuel's death prior to September 1918.(12)

During its existence, the Rencurrel factory produced other brands of cigarettes such as "Andrea," "Galatea" and "Maceo," which was named after Antonio Maceo, the Cuban Revolutionary War hero who died in battle. José Manuel secured permission from Maceo's widow for the use of the name.(13)

The two-story building at 82 Aguila Street was owned by the Rencurrel family until 1947 when it was sold to one of Havana's leading department stores, namely "Fin de Siglo."(14)

Although cigar and cigarette smoking are no longer in vogue, and rightly so, due to their unhealthful nature, the tobacco industry was one of the mainstays of the Cuban economy in the 19th century. At that time tobacco and its products helped to bring Cuba to a place of prominence in world markets.

Land Sites Granted by the Municipal Government of La Habana between 1552 and 1600

At the beginning of the colonization of Santo Domingo, the kings of Spain authorized Christopher Columbus, by letter on July 22, 1497, to grant to the settlers "lands, hills and waters," to be theirs to do with whatever they saw fit. This practice was called "repartimientos."

When the conquest of Cuba started, Diego Velázquez, functioning as lieutenant of the Viceroy Diego Colón, founded towns and granted lands to the settlers of those towns.

Since the towns were so far away one from the other, it was the usual practice for the town council to authorize the settling of the different areas of the town by granting land sites. On August 30, 1520 a Royal Provision gave confirmation to the "repartimientos" done to that date on the island.

After 1520 the town council had the authority to give out the land as the settlers solicited them. These grantings were as permanent possession, and were recognized as such by Governor Cáceres, in the first Municipal Orders of Cuba.

In 1729 the town councils could grant land only with the right to possession. The property of the land was to be given by the king at a later date. In 1819 the properties were given to those who could prove possession of the land in the last 40 years.

The following list is an extract based exclusively on the "Protuario de Mercedes" and it has not been compared to any other documentation of the times.

Among the persons listed there could be family relations that are not obvious by just reading the names. This relationship can be found in the works of Francisco Xavier de Santa Cruz, who made a more complete study of the families that settled in Cuba during the XVI century.

PARISH OF GUAMUTAS -- Marriages 1779-1786

PARISH OF REMEDIOS -- Marriages 1737-1751

MATANZAS and LAS VILLAS -- CUBA

This computerized list of marriages in the Cathedral of Matanzas is a copy of the transcriptions made by hand by friends and associates of Francisco Xavier de Santa Cruz. It is only a partial record and contains only certain families which were being studied at the time.

The register from Guamutas and Remedios are about a few families only, but have a wealth of information about these families.

There are some baptism transcriptions and some general notes about priest. This information has been identified as always, with a (B) for baptism and a (G) for general information.

The list has been kept in the original order to separate the different parishes as follows: Books 55, 56, and 57 from pages 16 to 43 are from the Cathedral, (these are all at the beginning of the list); Book 57 from pages 1 to 4 are from Guamutas; Book 57 from pages 5 to 15 are from Remedios. These two parishes are at the end of the list.

The information contained in the following list is self-explanatory for the most part. The surname and given name are found first, followed by the sex of the individual, the date of the marriage, a column indicating whether the individual listed is the one being married (M), or is associated genealogically (G), which usually indicates parents or other spouses. The reference number finishes out the line. The numbers at the very end refer to the page and entry number of the original transcription. These are helpful in looking at all individuals identified in a given entry and may also be used for further reference in corresponding with CGS to get a copy of the transcription, or in using the manuscripts found at the Hialeah Family History Center.
