EDITOR'S LETTER

We would like to announce the first conference of the Cuban Genealogical Society, to be held in Miami, Florida, the 11th of June, 1993 at the Koubek Center from 6:00 pm to 10:00 pm.

We are preparing all the details and soon will be sending a program announcement with registration form to the members of the society. We would like to invite all those who are interested and read about it in this REVISTA. The registration fee will be $15.00 for non-members and $12.00 for members. Write to us for more information.

We are very excited about this event and we anticipate a good response. We will be engaging the members that live in the Miami area in the preparation of the conference on a voluntary basis and hope to come to know each other better while working together in this project.

The speakers will be covering topics like the Special Collection of Cuban books in the University of Miami; Spanish and Cuban Hidalguia nobility's genealogical records; the future goals of the society in gathering data; and other genealogy topics.

We would also like to announce that one of our members, Andrés Castellanos, has accepted an invitation to be our New York representative. We are happy to have his experience helping us in the New York area.

During the conference in Miami we will be announcing our Florida representative and perhaps other very-needed help to make the society more efficient and productive.

My Roots in Trinidad

Extracted and translated from the notes of Marvin Pérez Uría, and the genealogy research done by Manuel Moreno Fragnals, both descendants of the Uría family.

This work was submitted by Margarita Engle, who had research done through CGS to find the origin in Spain of the Uría family.

Trinidad was founded in the beginning of 1514, being the third of the first seven villages founded by Spaniards to consolidate their hold in the island of Cuba. From its foundation by Diego de Velazquez the village of Trinidad was subject to great migration-immigration processes, which justify the fact that there is so little information about its first inhabitants. In 1534 the village had only 5 families.

Because of the small number of Spaniards and the great level of prosperity reached by the Indians of the territory in agriculture and the raising of cattle, the first Alguacil of the village was an Indian. This detail brings us the idea of a harmonious village, which in 1585 received the title of City.

During the next century Trinidad was the scene of pirate attacks, a Caribbean product of the war between England and Spain. It was also the scene of agricultural growth with the cultivation of sugar cane, which became an important crop of the entire island.

During the 18th century, according to a chronicle of the times, Trinidad is described as follows:

698 houses with roofs of tile and others of straw, form 264 squares in disorder, 31 streets and alleys, 792 families and 5,840 persons.

Our ancestors lived in a Trinidad like this one, and some of them had posts in the government: In 1732 D. Tomás Herrera, was Alcalde Ordinario; mentioned in the 1735 Acts of the Cavildo. In 1747 D. Pedro Francisco de Yanes y Rodríguez Abreu, was Alcalde Ordinario.

In 1755 D. Gaspar José de Cintra, was Contador de la Real Hacienda. Also during this century Juan Francisco Ramírez de Marmolejo y Guzman had the post of Alarife Mayor of Trinidad.

The 19th century begins for Trinidad with the title of Capital of the Department of Central Cuba, which was granted in 1797. In 1801 the German genius Alexander Humboldt visited the city, and it is forever remembered in his work Ensayo Político sobre la Isla de Cuba: "...We were welcomed in the City of Trinidad at the house of Señor Muñoz, Administrator of the Real Hacienda, with amiable hospitality...."

There is evidence that the Señor Muñoz, to which Humboldt refers in his work was the first owner of the sugar refinery Goatzacoalco, and related to the Muñoz family that is mentioned in our ancestry.

In this same book we also read: "We had a very comfortable night at the house of Antonio Padrón, one of the wealthier inhabitants of the city, in the company of the principal people in town. We admired the happiness and vivaciousness of the women of Cuba, equal in the provincial town as in the capital. Theirs is a gift of nature that, with the refinement of the European civilization, it is made more attractive, and is pleasing in its primitive simplicity."

It is evident that these graces and qualities are present in our family when we find the following decimas written to Josefa de Uría, our relative.

Pobre errante peregrino me he encontrado en Cartagena con una hermosa sirena
de mirar puro y divino.

Poor errant traveler
I find myself in Cartagena with a beautiful mermaid of pure and divine nature.

Si el angel de mi destino en mi obscura y triste via hoy quiere la musa mía
darle dulce inspiración
a ti alzaré mi canción
a ti Josefita Uría.

If the angel of my destiny
in my dark and sand road
today wants to my muse
give it sweet inspiration to you I raise my song to you Josefa Uría.

From the year 1855, when Antonio José Trujillo y Muñoz acquired the sugar refinery from Diego Manuel Echamendía Muñoz, the family has been involved in the industry of sugar in the refinery Goatzacoalco. The origin of the name of the refinery is a mystery that fascinates us to this day, since being a name of Mexican roots is given to a refinery in Trinidad. In its house many of our ancestors were born. We have one of them, Dr. Julio Uría Peña, relate his memories to us:

Once married on the 15th of September 1887, my parents went to live at the old colonial house that was the residence house in the refinery Goatzacoalco. Of strong construction of brick, roof of creole tile and floors of bricks, with an ample portal at the front of the house, a huge front room, two big size rooms, followed by a dormitories were to the north and south of the structure. To the back of the house there was another big portal followed by the kitchen and the storage room. The house was about fifteen steps from the refinery and the house of Purga; from the front portal we could see the fields of sugar cane and the vein of silver that was the Río Agabama. This house must be still standing because the last time I saw it, thirty years ago, it was in very good condition.

Here were born my three older siblings, Arturo, Mariana and María del Carmen. My parents had to move to another house in the ranch La Chorrera, because of the declared war of 1895 and later because of the activities of Valeriano Weyler, my parents had to leave Trinidad with six children and with only a few cows which he attended to, even though my father had malaria, in order to feed his family.

After the War of Independence my family went back to the refinery Goatzacoalco, but the refinery had been destroyed, and the cattle had turned wild. The field of sugar cane were gone and to get to the old house we had to open a trail with machate.

Because of inheritance distribution, the land property was divided and my father did not get the old colonial house. He had to construct another one, a lot more modest, made of wood and tile, with floor of brick, with the same distribution as the old house, but in a smaller scale. There we started the year 1899, repairing the damage we found. After five years of war everything needed repair, the animals needed to be rounded up, etc. After much effort, my father was able to own cattle in partnership with other friends and after many frustrations and disillusion, he was able to have cattle of his own, consisting of cows, sheep, pigs, a horse and a mule.

With this we started a new life and in the period of time between the end of the war and the year 1915, when my father died, my siblings Darío, Etelvina, and Rubén were born.

Tousard Correspondence Lists
65 Saint-Domingue Refugees

by Augusta B. Elmwood

First published in the Newsletter of the Saint-Domingue Special Interest Group

On 25 December 1813, the Governor of Louisiana, William C. C. Claiborne, issued a proclamation ordering the drafting of "a number of officers and soldiers of the militia to be placed under the orders of the general [American] commandant of this district."

This alarmed the French citizens who were living in New Orleans and serving the local militia, (many of them were Saint-Domingue refugees). Although they felt it their duty to "contribute to the safety of the place where they receive hospitality and protection", they feared that, if they were transferred to the regular armed forces of the United States, this would jeopardize their French citizenship because of their affiliation with "a strange military corporation."

This matter was the subject of correspondence between Louis Tousard, the French Consulate at New Orleans, and Governor Claiborne. An unpublished WPA typescript translation of four of Tousard's letter (written 30 December 1813, and 6, 10 and 11 January 1814) is at the Louisiana Historical Center at the Old Mint in New Orleans (Call No. 324.15 T734LY La.) It is entitled Letters of LOUIS TOUSARD French Consul at New Orleans to GOVERNOR WILLIAM C. C. CLAIBORNE Pertaining to French Citizens Who Claimed They Should Be Exempt From U. S. Military Service 1813. (All quotations in this article are from the WPA typescript; comments in brackets and parentheses are mine.

The context of Tousard's letters only suggests (Claiborne's correspondence was not included) that the subject of the exemption of French citizens from service in the regular American forces had been under discussion earlier (in October of 1813), and a decision, favorable to the French nationals had been reached. So, Claiborne's decree of 25 December, understandably, gave rise to new concern among the French in New Orleans.

In the first letter to Claiborne (30 December 1813), Tousard cites "Article 21, chapter 2, section 1 of the [French] Imperial Code" which prohibits French citizens from "serving with the armed forces of any foreign power or receiving pay, rations, and other emoluments from any such power," under penalty of forfeiture of citizenship.

Tousard's second letter (6 January 1814) refers to an almost identical incident which occurred in Saint-Domingue when he was the commandant of the French National Guard of Cap Francais in 1802 and 1803.

At that time there were numerous American merchants, ship captains, and other businessmen living at "le Cap" who wished to perform their military service in the city and to be exempted from "marching beyond the posts", indeed a dangerous maneuver at that time. On the orders of General Rochambeau, Tousard formed "a Special company [of these resident (American) aliens]...assigned the guarding of the wharves, seashore and the marines in the interior of the city." This decision was considered an act of justice by all involved.

In this same letter, Tousard requested that each individual be issued "a certificate which will mention your (the Governor's) authorization," and that "the colonels and other officers of the militia be ordered to have deference thereto."

The typescript does not state whether Claiborne granted the exemptions; the last letter in this series of correspondence (11 January 1814) indicated that he tried to avoid the issue by referring Tousard to a "tribunal created by the militia law" for a decision.

However, two lists (accompanying the letters of 6 and 10 January 1814) were submitted to Claiborne. They contained the names of 75 men claiming French citizenship. 10 of them were from France; the rest were from Saint-Domingue, Guadeloupe, Cuba or Jamaica; some had been prisoners of the British.

The following information was copied verbatim from the WPA transcript. I have capitalized and boldfaced the surnames to aid in scanning. Although this article was double-checked for typos, the accuracy of the typescript was not checked against the original documents. I would like to hear from researchers who discover an ancestor on these lists:

(This is the list of fifty-three persons submitted with correspondence of 6 January 1814)

List of the French, who, being French citizens and wishing to retain their French citizenship, and claiming to be exempt from the regulations of the Proclamation of His Excellency, the Governor, of December 25th, 1813.

Parish Register of the Cathedral of Santiago de Cuba, Oriente, Cuba

Marriages 1693 to 1878

The transcriptions from the Cathedral of Santiago de Cuba, Oriente, are of selected families that were being studied at the time by Francisco Xavier de Santa Cruz and his associates.

The extractions cover the years 1688 to 1878. There was no order to the entries, so we have given them a chronological order to conform with previous listings.

This is the first part of this listing, and subsequent issues will contain the rest.

The information contained in the following listing has the same format as previously used. To recap: The surname and given name are found first, followed by the sex of the individual, the date of the marriage, a letter indicting whether the individual listed is the one being married (M), or is associated genealogically (G); this G follows the names of parents or other spouses and witnesses, if any. The numbers at the very end refer to the page and entry number of the original transcription. These are helpful in looking at the individuals identified in a given entry and may also be used for further reference in corresponding with CGS to get a printout of the entry as it appears in the original transcription.

SOCIETY NOTES:

I am looking for information of the De Soto family, from Santiago de Cuba, Oriente. My great-grandfather, Antonio de Soto y Bustamante, was born in Santiago and died there on the 24th of January 1940. He married Felicitas Arias y Diaz of Palma Soriano, Oriente. She was born on the 22nd of December, 1892 and died in Santiago on the 11th of January, 1948. They had 7 children; one died at an early age.

I am also looking for information on the Sigler family. They were from Germany; however, we do not know who the person was that moved to Cuba. Agnelio Sigler (maybe born in Güines, Oriente), married Leonarda Guerra. Her parents were Leonardo Guerra and Hernanda Rodriguez. They had one son, Agnelio Sigler y Guerra, who married Otmara Natividad Carrasco y Macias, of Cienfuegos, Las Villas, the 24th of Nov 1946 in Havana. Agnelio Sigler y Guerra was born the 4th of May 1925 in Güines, and died the 11th of January, 1976 in Miami, Florida.

I would appreciate any information concerning these families. I will be more than happy to reimburse any costs involved.
