EDITOR'S LETTER

We are please to announce that we are planning a Genealogical Conference for the year 2002, tentatively scheduled for April 27-28. It will take place in the city of Miami.

Thanks to many local persons that have willingly accepted to help with all the details, the plans are going well and we expect it to be a great success.

We invite you to consider attending the Conference even if you live far away. We think it will be a very informative and productive time.

In the future, when we have more definitive details we will make the public.

ISIDORO DE ARMENTEROS

Isidoro de Armenteros

Isidoro de Armenteros was born in Trinidad, the 4th of April of 1808, of distinguished parents.

He was by Narciso López at the conspiracy of Minas de la Rosa Cubana and later meant Anacleto Bermúdez and Serapio Recio with whom he planed the upraising of Puerto Principe and Trinidad, in 1851.

He headed the movement in Trinidad, with a group of sixty nine men, that were taken over by the Spanish army and many were taken prisoners. Armenteros escaped to the mountains, but later surrendered to the Lieutenant José María Espinosa.

He was given a trial and condemned to death. On August 18, 1851 he gave his life for the independence of his country.

His body was taken by his family and buried in the general cemetery of Trinidad. An early hero of the independence movement that somehow has been forgotten.

Santiago de Cuba, Commercial-Professional Guide 1955

By Alberto Blanco Gerindote
Translated by Mayra F. Sánchez-Johnson

On Wednesday, June 28, 1514, the villa of Santiago was founded, and according to the respected Morell de Santa Cruz, "has always had the added "de Cuba" in its name, the name of the island".

After discovering a bay very well guarded against the winds, exceptionally suited for the safety of the ships, after their voyage to the Island of Santiago (Jamaica) and La Española ( Santo Domingo), Don Diego Velázquez, Captain of War and Governor of Cuba, decided to found the village, has ordered by the Viceroy of La Española, Don Diego Colón y Muñiz, son of the Grand Admiral and Discoverer. He founded the village under the patronage of Our Lord Santiago, Patron of Spain, and he established his residence there permanently.

After 441 years of this accomplishment, there subsists a legend that the city was founded at the shores of the bay and near the river Paradas, something that no one has ever been able to prove, since it is more than certain that this is incorrect. The village was founded in the same actual place where it now exists and Santiago and Trinidad are the only villages that never changed their location from the original founding place. This is proven by the historians of the Conquest and other notables like Bishop Morell de Santa Cruz García de la Romera, and other of the same prestige.

Among the illustrious founders of the city of Santiago de Cuba, together with the Governor Don Diego Velázquez de Cuellar, are numbered persons that wrote their name in the pages of history with the Conquest of the New World, like Dion Hernán Cortés y Pizarro, the most illustrious Captain of the conquest of the Mexican Empire, Francisco Hernández de Córdova, discoverer of the coasts of Mexico, Juan de Grijalva, Francisco de Montejo, Gonzalo Nuño de Guzmán, Amador de Lares, Pedro de Barba, Cristobál de Olid, who is considered a true friend of the Indian Hatuey on Baracoa, Manuel de Rojas, Pánfilo de Narvaez, First Governor of Bayamo, and Fray Juan de Tessin, the brothers Pedro, Gonzalo and Juan de Alvarado and by coincidence Juan Ponce de León, and also many more of less importance.

Santiago de Cuba, from its foundation in 1514 to the 2nd of December of 1608, was the capital of the island. Here the conquest of the new world was forged and it's neighbors were the founders of almost every nation in the Americas.

More than forty generals of the independence war of your nation were natives of Santiago de Cuba. This city was the first place where the colonial government of the island ended, on Jul 17th, 1898, when it ended in La Habana on January 1, 1899.

Santiago de Cuba, the mother of nations and the crib of Heredia and Antonio Maceo, city of destiny, that keeps in it's bosom the rests of Carlos Manuel de Céspedes, Father of the Country, and José Martí the Apostle and Liberator .

God Bless Her!!

Alberto Blanco Gerindote

Memoirs of the Mexican Academy of Genealogy and Heraldry

Two Cuban family names from the XVI century: Guilizasti and Millan de Bohorques

By D. Rafael Nieto y Cortadellas, Honorary Academic of the Mexican Academy of Genealogy and Heraldry

Translated by Mayra F. Sánchez- Johnson

The distinguished Cuban genealogist Don Francisco Xavier de Santa Cruz y Mallén, Count of San Juan de Jaruco and Santa Cruz de Mopox, on page 207 of volume IV of his History of Cuban Families introduces the genealogy of the Guilizasti family name, and on page 282 of the same volume, the family name of Millán de Bohorques, Spanish families established in the island of Cuba during the XVI century.

In the books of the section called "Inquisition" in the National Archives of México there was found, in volume 277, pages 482 to 502, an investigation that took place in La Habana, on August 26, 1607, by Juan Bautista de Guilizasti y de la Vega, in the name of his wife, Leonor Millán de Bohorques, in the presence of Fray Francisco Carronco and the lawyer, Martín Calvo de la Puerta, notary public, together with a judicial decree dated in México on the last day of August, 1610, before the lawyer Gutierrez de Quirós and the doctor Martos de Bohorques, both of the Holy Office of the Inquisition.

In volume 288, folios 248 to 332, it was also found that an información de hidalguía<sup>1</sup> took place in the town of San Sebastián, Guipúzcoa, on May 26, 1609, before the lawyer Juan Pérez de Mutio, commissioner of the Holy Office, held in the presence of Juan de Arbeláiz, notary of the Inquisition, as well as various subsidiary investigations that took place in Cádiz and in the towns of Aznalcázar and Utrera, called in order to obtain, for the aforementioned Juan Bautista de Guilizasti y de la Vega, the position of member of the Holy Office of the Inquisition in La Habana.

This Guilizasti, who had gone to La Habana, with his brother Nicolás and sister Mariana, was founder of a distinguished Cuban family which, for lack of male lineage, merged with the [families of] González-Cordero, Calvo de la Puerta, Valdespino, Arias de Valdés, Chávez, and Ortiz de Gatica, all very important families of the Cuban capital.

According to the data found in the National Archives, previously mentioned, this genealogy appears as follows:

Maestro Joannes de Guilizasti, native and resident of the town of San Sebastián, in Guipúzcoa, and his wife María Esteban de Sandie, of the same origin, had two daughters, Catalina and Isabel, and a son, Nicolás.

Don Nicolás de Guilizasti y Esteban de Sandie, also a native of the town of San Sebastián, settled in the city of Cádiz with his parents and sisters, where he was a member of the Holy Office of the Inquisition. He married María González de la Vega, a native of Cádiz, and daughter of Gonzalo Díaz de la Vega, native of Aznalcázar, in Sanlúcar la Mayor, Diocese of Seville, and Ana Díaz Novela, a native of Toledo. Don Nicolás de Guilizasti and his wife, María González de la Vega, were parents of, amongst others, Juan Bautista Guilizasti:

Don Juan Bautista Guilizasti y de la Vega, born in the city of Cádiz, was notary public of La Habana, and obtained a position as member of the Holy Office of the Inquisition, as evident from the diligent promotion found in the previously mentioned volume 288 of the section of the "Inquisition" in the custody of the National Archives. He was married in the Cathedral of La Habana on July 8, 1591, to Leonor Millán de Bohorques, a native of Santiago de Cuba, the daughter of Felipe Delgado,<sup>2</sup> who was born in the town of Dueñas, in the Bishopric of Palencia, and Antonia Millán de Bohorques,<sup>3</sup> who was born in Santiago de Cuba. The descendants of Juan Bautista de Guilizasti and his wife Leonor Millán de Bohorques are described by the Count of San Juan de Jaruco in his previously cited work.

<sup>3</sup> The parents of Antonia Millán de Bohórques were Juan Millán de Bohórques, born in the town of Utrera, who married Catalina de Quesada Porras, born in Santiago de Cuba, where they were residents. The father of Juan Millán de Bohórques was Don Mateo de Fustes, nobleman of the House of Millanes and Ximénez, in the town of Utrera, diocese of Seville.
